

Animal Fact Sheet

Name: _____ Date: _____

Cabbage White Butterfly

Pieris rapae

The Cabbage White Butterfly is a small to medium-sized butterfly native to Europe, Asia, and North Africa but has become widespread in North America and Australia due to accidental introduction. Reco...

Quick facts

Classification: Invertebrate

Family: Pieridae

Habitat: Open fields, gardens, agricultural areas, meadows

Diet: Herbivore

Conservation status: Least Concern

Lifespan: 2-4 weeks (adult stage)

Weight: 0.03–0.1 grams

Scientific name: Pieris rapae

Did you know?

- Despite their delicate appearance, Cabbage White Butterflies are among the most widespread and adaptable butterfly species on the planet.
- Cabbage White Butterflies can lay hundreds of eggs in their lifetime, making them highly prolific. They have excellent UV vision, which helps them lo...

What I learned
