CREATURE ATLAS

Animal Fact Sheet

Name: _____ Date: _____

Columbia Spotted Frog

Rana luteiventris

The Columbia Spotted Frog is a medium-sized amphibian native to the northwestern United States and parts of southwestern Canada. It is known for its olive green to brown coloration, dark spots scatte…

Quick facts

Classification: Amphibian
Family: Ranidae
Habitat: Freshwater wetlands, ponds, and slow-moving streams
Diet: Carnivore
Conservation status: Least Concern
Lifespan: 4-10 years
Weight: 15-45 grams
Scientific name: Rana luteiventris

Did you know?

- Unlike many frogs, Columbia Spotted Frogs are active during the day and can often be seen basking in the sun along the water's edge.
- Columbia Spotted Frogs can survive in high-elevation mountain lakes up to 3,000 meters. During winter, they hibernate at the bottom of ponds or burie…

What I learned

© Creature Atlas · www.creatureatlas.com · Free for classroom & personal use