CREATURE ATLAS

Animal Fact Sheet

Name: _____ Date: _____

Cuban Tree Frog

Osteopilus septentrionalis

The Cuban Tree Frog is the largest tree frog species native to the Caribbean, particularly Cuba, but is now widely established in Florida and other parts of the Caribbean. It is known for its variabl…

Quick facts

Classification: Amphibian
Family: Hylidae
Habitat: Subtropical and tropical forests, wetlands, gardens, urban areas
Diet: Carnivore
Conservation status: Least Concern
Lifespan: 5–10 years
Weight: 11–56 grams
Scientific name: Osteopilus septentrionalis

Did you know?

- The Cuban Tree Frog is considered an invasive species in Florida, where it preys on native frogs, lizards, and even small birds.
- Cuban Tree Frogs can change their color for camouflage and have a loud, raspy call. Their skin secretions can cause irritation in humans and pets.

What I learned

© Creature Atlas · www.creatureatlas.com · Free for classroom & personal use