

Name: _____ Date: _____

Himalayan Newt

Tylototriton verrucosus

The Himalayan Newt, also known as the crocodile newt or warty newt, is a medium-sized amphibian recognized for its rough, warty skin and striking orange markings along its tail and limbs. It inhabits...

Quick facts

Classification: Amphibian

Family: Salamandridae

Habitat: Montane forests and freshwater streams

Diet: Carnivore

Conservation status: Near Threatened

Lifespan: 10-15 years

Weight: 20–40 grams

Scientific name: Tylototriton verrucosus

Did you know?

- Despite living in cold, high-altitude regions, Himalayan Newts can survive brief periods of freezing temperatures thanks to their ability to enter a ...
- Himalayan Newts have a defense mechanism where they arch their bodies and display their bright orange coloration to deter predators. Their skin secretes...

What I learned

-----

-----