CREATURE ATLAS

Animal Fact Sheet

Name: _____ Date: _____

Jungle Curl

Felis catus

The Jungle Curl is a rare and exotic domestic cat breed known for its distinctive curled-back ears and wild, leopard-like spotted coat. Developed by crossing domestic cats with wildcat hybrids, it re…

Quick facts

Classification: Mammal
Family: Felidae
Habitat: Domestic, derived from temperate forests and jungle environments
Diet: Carnivore
Conservation status: Not Evaluated
Lifespan: 12-16 years
Weight: 4–7 kg
Scientific name: Felis catus

Did you know?

- Despite their wild appearance, Jungle Curls are entirely domestic and have no behavioral traits of their wild ancestors.
- Jungle Curls are distinguished by their tightly curled ears, a trait resulting from a natural genetic mutation. Their spotted coats are reminiscent o…

What I learned

© Creature Atlas · www.creatureatlas.com · Free for classroom & personal use