CREATURE ATLAS

Animal Fact Sheet

Name: _____ Date: _____

Lesser Bushbaby

Galago senegalensis

The lesser bushbaby, also known as the Senegal bushbaby or Senegal galago, is a small nocturnal primate native to sub-Saharan Africa. It is distinguished by its large, forward-facing eyes adapted for…

Quick facts

Classification: Mammal
Family: Galagidae
Habitat: Woodlands and savannas
Diet: Omnivore
Conservation status: Least Concern
Lifespan: 8-12 years
Weight: 95-300 grams
Scientific name: Galago senegalensis

Did you know?

- Bushbabies use their urine to mark their territory and create scent trails for navigation.
- Bushbabies can leap up to 2.25 meters (7.5 feet) in a single bound. Their name comes from their distinctive, baby-like cries. They have a specialized…

What I learned

© Creature Atlas · www.creatureatlas.com · Free for classroom & personal use