CREATURE ATLAS

Animal Fact Sheet

Name: _____ Date: _____

Longhorn Beetle

Cerambycidae spp.

The Longhorn Beetle is a diverse family of beetles known for their extremely long antennae, often longer than their bodies. These beetles are found worldwide with over 35,000 species, and they vary g…

Quick facts

Classification: Invertebrate
Family: Cerambycidae
Habitat: Forests
Diet: Herbivore
Conservation status: Least Concern
Lifespan: 1-3 years
Weight: 0.1-5 grams
Scientific name: Cerambycidae spp.

Did you know?

- The titan beetle (Titanus giganteus) of the Amazon, a member of this family, can grow up to 17 centimeters (almost 7 inches) long, making it one of t…
- Longhorn Beetles can sense pheromones from miles away using their long antennae. Some tropical species are among the largest beetles in the world. Th…

What I learned

© Creature Atlas · www.creatureatlas.com · Free for classroom & personal use