CREATURE ATLAS

Animal Fact Sheet

Name: _____ Date: _____

Mimic Glass Frog

Hyalinobatrachium mimina

The Mimic Glass Frog is a small, translucent amphibian native to the rainforests of Ecuador and Colombia. It is renowned for its transparent underbelly, which reveals its internal organs, and its abi…

Quick facts

Classification: Amphibian
Family: Centrolenidae
Habitat: Lowland and foothill rainforest near clear running streams
Diet: Carnivore
Conservation status: Least Concern
Lifespan: 3-7 years
Weight: 2-5 grams
Scientific name: Hyalinobatrachium mimina

Did you know?

- Despite their delicate look, Mimic Glass Frogs are capable of leaping several times their body length to escape danger.
- Mimic Glass Frogs possess skin so translucent you can see their beating heart and internal organs. Males guard the eggs and keep them moist with thei…

What I learned

© Creature Atlas · www.creatureatlas.com · Free for classroom & personal use