

Animal Fact Sheet

Name: _____ Date: _____

Mimic Poison Frog

Ranitomeya imitator

The Mimic Poison Frog is a small, brightly colored amphibian renowned for its striking patterns and remarkable mimicry abilities. Native to the lowland and montane rainforests of northern Peru, this ...

Quick facts

Classification: Amphibian

Family: Dendrobatidae

Habitat: Tropical rainforest

Diet: Carnivore

Conservation status: Least Concern

Lifespan: 4-8 years

Weight: 1-2 grams

Scientific name: Ranitomeya imitator

Did you know?

- Despite their bright and intimidating coloration, Mimic Poison Frogs are actually less toxic than many other poison frogs and rely on mimicry for protection.
- Mimic Poison Frogs are one of the few frog species that display biparental care, with both the male and female tending to their young. They are known for their elaborate courtship displays.

What I learned
