CREATURE ATLAS

Animal Fact Sheet

Name: _____ Date: _____

Moor Frog

Rana arvalis

The Moor Frog is a small, slender amphibian native to Europe and parts of Asia, particularly favoring wet meadows, marshes, and forested wetlands. Notably, males turn bright blue for a few days durin…

Quick facts

Classification: Amphibian
Family: Ranidae
Habitat: Wetlands and marshy areas
Diet: Carnivore
Conservation status: Least Concern
Lifespan: 5-8 years
Weight: 7–23 grams
Scientific name: Rana arvalis

Did you know?

- Despite their small size, Moor Frogs have a highly variable croaking call that can be heard up to several hundred meters away during mating season.
- Male Moor Frogs temporarily turn bright blue during breeding season, a rare phenomenon among European amphibians. They can tolerate mildly brackish w…

What I learned

© Creature Atlas · www.creatureatlas.com · Free for classroom & personal use