

Animal Fact Sheet

Name: _____ Date: _____

Nudibranch

Chromodoris willani (example)

Nudibranchs are a diverse group of soft-bodied, marine gastropod mollusks renowned for their striking colors and intricate patterns. Often referred to as 'sea slugs,' these animals lack a protective ...

Quick facts

Classification: Invertebrate

Family: various (e.g., Chromodorididae, Glaucidae, etc.)

Habitat: Ocean

Diet: Carnivore

Conservation status: Least Concern

Lifespan: 1-4 years

Weight: 0.1-200 grams

Scientific name: Chromodoris willani (example)

Did you know?

- Some nudibranchs can photosynthesize by storing algae or chloroplasts from their food within their own tissues, allowing them to derive energy from s...
- Many nudibranchs can incorporate toxins or stinging cells from their prey into their own tissues for defense. Some species are able to produce brilli...

What I learned

