

Animal Fact Sheet

Name: _____ Date: _____

Spotted eagle ray

Aetobatus narinari

The spotted eagle ray is a striking marine fish known for its unique, dark body covered with white or yellowish spots and a long, whip-like tail. It is a graceful swimmer, often seen gliding near the...

Quick facts

Classification: FishFamily: MyliobatidaeHabitat: Coastal and reef-associated marine watersDiet: CarnivoreConservation status: Near ThreatenedLifespan: 15-25 yearsWeight: 150–230 kgScientific name: Aetobatus narinari

Did you know?

- Unlike most rays, the spotted eagle ray gives birth to live young instead of laying eggs.
- Spotted eagle rays are known for their acrobatic leaps above the water, sometimes reaching heights of several meters. They possess flat, plate-like t...

What I learned

.....

.....